The name Armistead was well known in England during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. There is a tradition that the family came originally from Hesse-Darmstadt, or that the fore-bearers crossed the seas with the Norsemen and settled in England. The point of tradition may very well hold up, as the original Armistead home, built by John "The Councillor" in 1674, in Matthews County, Virginia is named Hesse. This home is now called Hesse Plantation and is being restored by Mr. & Mrs. John Maxwell.

The Armistead's have played a predominate role in the formation of American history. Major George Armistead, defended Fort McHenry at the time Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner". Descendants of the Armistead's have contributed three presidents, William Henry Harrison, John Tyler, and Benjamin Harrison. Two signers of the Declaration of Independence, General Thomas Nelson, and Robert Morris signer and financier of the American Revolution and Stevens Thomas Mason who became the first governor of Michigan. There were fifteen southern Generals in the War of Northern Aggression, among these Robert E. Lee, commander of the southern forces, and General Louis Addison Armistead, born in Newbern, North Carolina, February 18, 1817. His father was General Walker Keith Armistead, who was one of five brothers who took part in the War of 1812. General Louis A. Armistead graduated from West Point in 1836. At Antietam, September 17, 1862 the closing battle of the Maryland campaign through which he served, General Armistead was wounded. He was with General Lee in his invasion of Pennsylvania in 1863 which culminated in Gettysburg. On the third day of this battle General Armistead led the advance of Pickett's great column of attack, and under a fatal fire took temporary possession of one of the guns on Cemetery Ridge. In the hand to hand fight that ensued within the Federal lines, General Armistead was shot and left a prisoner. The wound was mortal. He died the same day, July 3, 1863. His brave and heroic act is said to mark the "High Tide of the Confederacy".

CAPTAIN WILLIAM ARMISTEAD born in 1762, in Elizabeth City County Virginia, and later moved to Randolph County, North Carolina. He entered the Continental Army when he was about 15 years of age and served until the surrender at York Town. He married Rebecca Kimbell, the daughter of Benjamin Kimbell and Mary (Ransom) Kimbell. William Armistead migrated to Alabama about 1818, settling on the Indian Boundary line. His brother-in-law Ransom Kimbell preceded him in the year 1810. He and most of his family perished in the Kimbell-James Massacre of the Creek Indian War. William Armistead sent his son-in-law, John Morris to Alabama to buy land. He returned again from North Carolina, in 1818, buying land in Wilcox and Clarke Counties, but supposedly was murdered in Washington County, by the Murrell Clan. John Morris was the step son of Captain William and his second wife Elizabeth (Lewis) Morris.

I could like Mr. Lyon G. Tyler say that Captain William was "doubtless" a son of Anthony & Mary (Tucker) Armistead, but this would not give me the satisfaction of a true record.

Mrs. Virginia Armistead Garber in her book The Armistead Family 1635 - 1910 quotes Tyler but then states that a granddaughter of Captain William Armistead, Mrs. Margaret A. Lewis, of Texas, says her grandfather had at least two brothers, both of whom were killed during the Revolution. that he saw his brother Westwood killed at the battle of Brandywine, and had two sisters who died young, and that he mentioned his aunts living in Virginia. This in its self raises doubts, for Anthoney & Mary (Tucker) Armistead's son Westwood, a Rev. soldier also, did not die until 1848 at the age of 84.

Capt. William Armistead, by his own declaration states he was born (1762) in Elizabeth City, Va., that he entered the service in Virginia, while Westwood (b.1763), son of Anthoney & Mary (Tucker) Armistead, by his own declaration states he was drafted into the service in North Carolina, where he lived and died.

True, much information may be misleading and Capt. William Armistead may in fact be the son of Anthoney & Mary (Tucker) Armistead, but until proof, if it exist, is found I leave the question of his Parantage open with the hope that proof may be found.

Stella Pickett Hardy in her book Colonial Families goes even further to confuse the issue by stating Captain William Armistead to be the son of Anthoney & Elizabeth (Lee) Armistead and grandson of Anthoney & Mary (Tucker) Armistead, thus making the Westwood Armistead which Mrs. Garber refer's to as Capt. William Armistead's brother - Capt. William Armistead's uncle. This can easily be disproved by the declaration of pension of both Capt. William Armistead and Westwood Armistead.

Capt. William Armistead states - his parents died when he was a very young boy.

Westwood Armistead states - that his brother Anthoney moved to to Miss. (after the Rev. War) and died there.

I have no doubt the relationship between Captain William Armistead and Anthoney & Mary (Tucker) Armistead was close, but what that relationship was, be it - son - nephew - cousin, proof has not been found to establish.

In the hope for that proof I include the ancestral line of Anthoney Armistead, who married Mary Tucker here.

William Armistead, the emigrant, came to the Virginia Colony about 1635; the son of Anthony and Francis (Thompson) Armistead, of Kirk Deighton, York Co., England; he was baptized in All Saints Church, August 3, 1610.

Capt. Anthony Armistead, of Elizabeth Coty Co., Virginia, born in 1645 died prior to 1728. He served as a Burgess from 1693 to 1699; of Court Marshall, under Sir William Berkeley, 1676, to try the Bacon insurgents; He married Hannah Ellyson, the daughter of Dr. Robert Ellyson, of James City County, Virginia, who had lived in St. Mary's Parish, Maryland, and as Sergeant at Arms of the House of Burgesses, 1657-58, and as a Burgess, 1656 to 1663, with the rank of Captain.

The records of as many of Anthony & Mary (Tucker) Armistead's descendants as I have been able to locate will be found under "Louisiana Armisteads".

The descendants of William Armistead, son of Robert Burbage Armistead and Mary (Semple) Armistead will be found under "Montgomery Armisteads". His ancestral line is as follows:

WILLIAM ARMISTEAD, the emigrant, son of Anthony and Francis (Thompson) Armistead. Issue: (among others)

The following is the genealogy of Captain William Armistead, the progenitor of the Armistead's in South Central Alabama, and his descendants from 1762 to 1968.

The well was about seventy five yards northwest of the house. It was a 75-foot well and it never ran low. The water was always cold when drawn and it quenched many a thirsty throat in its day and time. Many travelers who came by regular coach would stop there as they passed through that section of the state.

The front door led into a large living room. There were four glass windows which had wooden shutters on the outside. Two of these windows opened onto the verandah, the other two were separated by a fireplace which was large enough for a child to walk into. There were huge chimneys at each end of the house. These chimneys were built of a quarry rock found in South Clarke County. This quarry rock had to be hauled there by ox-drawn wagon over almost impassable roads. In winter, when logs were burning in those huge well-built fire places, the cold was really left outside.

Leading from the living room were three doors, one opening into each bedroom downstairs. A stairway led to the bedrooms upstairs. The other room at the front of the house was a combination bedroom and library. The attic was never quite completed even though it was used for storage.

In those days the dining room and kitchen were often built separate from the main part of the house. On this plantation the dining room, kitchen, and pantry were built north of the main house and facing the west. The porch of this section was connected to the back porch of the main house by a small covered walkway. Behind the kitchen was a smoke house where meats were cured and stored for the year's use. Hog killing time was, indeed, a big event on the old plantation.

North of the house, near the well, were the wash tubs and iron pots used in washing the clothes. The iron pots were used for boiling the clothes, the wash tubs used in rinsing these clothes. The laundry soap was called lye soap and was made by the workers on the plantation. The clothes were later ironed with flatirons. These irons were heated by placing them near the hot coals from an oak wood fire.

The furnishings of this old home were in keeping with the times. As one entered the front door into the living room, a beautiful square, rosewood piano stood to the left of the door between two front windows. Chairs, tables, bookcase, and hall tree were typical of the furniture used during that period. There were family portraits in oval frames and other pictures on the walls.

The bedrooms were large and airy, well suited to the high posted beds, beautiful dressers, washstands, commodes, and chests that one saw in them. Particularly remembered is my grandmother's dresser with its small drawers on either side of a marble top center, its mirror in a carved frame which was hung on uprights extending from the main dresser, and a tiny shelf on each of these upright pieces. On these shelves were two exquisite china vases in which she kept flowers from the garden. Also remembered is her love of roses, and how each time she went to the garden, if roses were in bloom, she would return with a tea rose in her hair. On either side of the dresser, hanging on the wall, were wall pockets which my grandmother called "hussufs." This was a term meaning

CLARKE COUNTY, ALABAMA

Westwood Armistead, (August 24, 1791 - 1845), oldest son of Capt. William Armistead, (1762-1842), and his wife, Rebecca (Kimbell) Armistead, came to Alabama in the early 1800's and settled at Gosport, Alabama. Later in the 1830-1840 period, Westwood built a home on his plantation in the Northwestern part of Clarke County near the Clarke and Marengo County line. His plantation being near the Tombigbee River, he chose a spot about two miles from the river to build his home.

As a child, this home was full of interest to me, and it is with a sense of love, pride, admiration, and honor that I record some of its history as told to me by my grandmother, Martha E. Armistead (Williams Kimbell (Jan.3, 1831 - Oct. 1913), Second daughter of Westwood Armistead and his wife, Elizabeth (Boroughs) Armistead. Another source of information was my mother, Jane Elizabeth (Williams) Allen who owned this home at that time.

This home was a two story structure of colonial style with a verandah supported by large columns across the front. It was built on a large level lot on the top of a ridge which sloped southward to the public road. A driveway parallel to the front of the house joined this road which soon forked, with one going north to Linden, Alabama, in Marengo County, and the other going west to Pickens Landing, on the Tombigbee River, from which cotton and other farm produce were shipped by river boat to Mobile for marketing. Standing near this crossroads was a very large oak tree under which Gen. Andrew Jackson and his men often rested during their activities against the Indians in Alabama. Thereafter it was known as the Jackson Oak.

A picket fence framed the front view of this colonial home and extended from the barn, along the driveway, until it joined the rail fences which enclosed all of the land that Westwood Armistead had under cultivation. A walkway led from the front gate to the shaded verandah. Near the east end of the verandah was a large catalpa tree, my particular dislike, since my task was to sweep the catalpa worms off the floor each morning when the trees were in bloom. At the west end of the verandah was a huge lattice, covered by a madeira vine that furnished a cool shade in the summer afternoons. On the east side of the verandah there was a shelf where a cedar waterbucket was kept full of cool well water in the summer. A gourd or dipper was used to drink from. Near the water shelf was a washstand with a bowl, pitcher, and soap holder. Underneath was a drawer for towels. There were similar sources for water on all the porches.

This brings to mind the source of water for every need on this plantation.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF SAMUEL FORWOOD
 FEBRUARY 27, 1888

Hartford Democrat - Bel Air, Maryland. Friday morning, May 11, 1888
 An Autobiographical Sketch of Samuel Forwood.

A native of Harford County, Md. now a resident of Gosport, Ala.
 Written for Preservation in the Archives of the Harford Historical Society.

READ BEFORE THE SOCIETY APRIL 28, 1888.

My name is Samuel Forwood. I was born May 7th, 1799, at my father's residence on Deer Creek, on the plantation called "Spittle Craft," in Harford County, Md. My present residence is Gosport, Clarke Co., Ala. father's name was John Forwood. He was born in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle Co., State of Delaware, five miles north of the city of Wilmington, on April 1st, 1762. My mother's name was Hannah Forwood, a daughter of Samuel Forwood, a first cousin to my father. She was born October 6th, 1767, in Harford Co., on Deer Creek, about 6 miles east of Bell Air.

My grandfather, my father's father, was William Forwood, of New Castle Co., State of Delaware. My grandfather on my mother's side was Samuel Forwood, of Harford County, State of Md. My grandfather, William Forwood, was born in 1723 and died in 1814, age 91 years. His wife, Sarah Clarke (or Clark) was born in 1731. I have not got the date of her decease. They were buried in a cemetery near where they resided. Of my grandfather, Samuel Forwood, and his wife, I have no date of their decease.

My mother died May 4th, 1829. My father died May 22nd, 1835. They were married March 14th, 1785. They had 14 children, 10 of whom were raised to manhood and womanhood, seven of whom were boys and three girls. Their names were Elizabeth, William, Robert, Jacob, Parker, Samuel, Jno., Mary, Julia Ann, and Amor Tally, born in the order named. All married and left children except Amor.

I have been twice married. My first wife was Rachel Cooper Stump, daughter of William and Dickett Stump, of Harford Co., near Darlington, Maryland. We were married at her father's residence, by the Rev. William Stephenson, a Methodist minister, on April 6th, 1828. She died Feb. 19, 1830 leaving an infant son, about three weeks old, who was raised by a foster mother, Mrs. Lavenia Johnson (daughter of Wm. Michael, wife of John Johnson) until about one year old. Afterwards his grandmother, Duckett Stump, took charge of him. He is now Dr. Wm. Stump Forwood, of Darlington, Harford Co., Maryland.

In the fall of 1830 after the death of my wife, I returned to Alabama, where I had previously resided from 1825 to 1828. I remained a widower until April 3rd, 1834. I was then married to my present wife, Martha Jane Morriss, of Clarke Co., Alabama, at her mother's residence, by Judge W. R. Hamilton.

My wife's father was John Morriss, a native of North Carolina. They moved to Alabama when she was quite young. Her mother was Elizabeth Armistead, of North Carolina, a daughter of a Revolutionary soldier, who at the age of 17 years, fought in the battle of Monmouth with Gen. Washington, and received a pension of $4 a year up to his decease in 1842. Hewas wealthy, owning lands and negroes. He was buried at his late residence, in Clarke Co., Alabama.

My wife's father was supposed to have been killed by Indians, when passing through the Creek Nation. She had two brothers and one sister. Her sister, Rebecca, married Thomas Boroughs. Both are deceased. They left seven children. Two of their sons are physicians. Her brothers are also dead. Like myself, she is the only living representative of her generation.

I have stated that I had but one child by my first marriage, who is now, I am proud to say, your worthy fellow-citizen, of my old county,

Harford, Dr. Wm. Stump Forwood. By my second marriage we have had ten children; only one daughter, the eldest, and she was accidentally killed while playing with her little brother, by a cotton bale falling upon her, when she was nine years old. We now have living four sons, all grown men, ie., Henry Hays Forwood, born November 8, 1842; Samuel Henderson Forwood, born April 2, 1849. These were named for my two best friends, Col. H.H.B. Hays and William Henderson, late of Alabama, (both natives of Harford Co., Maryland). The other two, Walter (born Aug. 29, 1852) and Franklin Pierce Forwood (born May 9, 1855), were respectively named for Judge Walter Forwood of Pittsburg and President Pierce.

I sent all my children to good local teachers in this county, (Clarke) and also sent Samuel and Walter to Summerfield Institute, near Selma, in Dallas Co., Alabama. I sent Franklin to Harvard College at Marion, Perry Co., Alabama. Walter also graduated at the Commercial College in New Orleans. He is now, Feb. 1888, residing in New Mexico.

In my early life, school teachers were of a common order, and were called "old field teachers," (probably from the location of their school houses.) When about six years old, I was sent to school. The 1st teacher was John McLaughlin, the 2nd, Edward Boarman; 3rd, Vincent Hackett; 4th, Benj. McClaskey; 5th, John Fisher, 6th, Simon Gillispie; 7th, Vincent Hackett, again; 8th, Jacob Forwood (my mother's brother); 9th, Samuel W. Lee, who boarded at my father's. He was the father of Josiah Lee, who was afterwards a successful banker in Baltimore; and lastly, the 10th, Michael McLaughlin, who was a fine penman. Of this numerous teachers, I considered Fisher, Gillispie, and Lee the best. The different locations of the schools were at the Union Cross Roads, the Trappe, Boarmans, Forwoods, Pyle's, and Wm. Smithson's. Some of the pupils at the Union Cross Roads were the Scarboroughs, McCauslands, Silvers, Nevels, Lundsays, Montgomerys, Days, Coopers, Cavenders, Gailbreaths, Coxes, Barclays, and Fosters; at the Trappe, Joseph Davis' children, Thomas Chew's, Joseph Hopkins', Robt. Gover's, James Lee's, Bond's, and many others that I have not named. At Boarman's were Benjamin Boarman, Robert, Edward and Louisa and Kittie Boarman, John Bennett and Austin Wheeler, Henry Wheeler, Christine Wheeler, Elizabeth Gover and others; at Pyle's, Ralph Pyle, of Wm., several of John and Isaac Pyle's children, Heaps', Ward's, and others; At Smighson's, William Smithson's children, Boarman's, Morgan's, Johnson's, Wheeler's, Green's and others, some thirty in each school.

I was raised on a farm in Harford Co., Maryland, and during the time I was not at school, worked at the various work incident to farming at my father's, attending to business for him constantly until the winter of 1824. In that winter, George S. Rigdon, a first cousin, and myself concluded to look at what was then the "far West," and pay a visit to relatives there, and prospect the country in the State of Ohio. We started on horse-back, in the winter of 1824, as just stated. The weather was very cold. We took what was then called the Pennsylvania turnpike road, via Carlisle and Chambersburg, and crossed the Alleghany Mountains while it was raining on the east and snowing on the west side. We arrived at our aunt's, Mrs. Mary Preston's residence, about Christmas. She resided near Pittsburg, in Washington Co., Pennsylvania. We traveled at the rate of 40 miles per day, and stood the journey finely.

While there we visited Pittsburg, seeing the nail, glass and cotton factories; also visited Allegheny town, where the penitentiary was situated. At that time there was a heavy snow on the ground, and the snow was blackened with the soot from the chimneys of the various factories. I noticed many ladies wearing veils, to keep the black soot from their faces, as I was informed.

We remained at our aunt's several days, and one of their sons, John Preston, joined us when we left for Ohio. We went through some portion of West Virginia, and crossed the Ohio River at Stubenville; thence down the river to Belle Air, and thence to Mt. Pleasant and Barnesville. There tarried some time and visited cousin Eli Rigdon, who was living there and teaching school. Thence we went to Zanesville on the Muskingum River, and to Irville, where Mr. Coulter resided, within 6 miles of Columbus. His wife was a Preston, and a cousin of ours. We stayed there some days. One of my cousins, Samuel F. Preston, was anxious for me to settle on a tract of land near him, but, owing to the condition of the country; no facilities for transportation of crops; wheat selling at  $12\frac{1}{2}$  cents and corn at  $6\frac{1}{2}$  cents per bushel, I had no fancy for it. We returned home by way of the U. S. turnpike, (or "National Road,") by Frederickton and Baltimore, arriving home in February, 1825, and there remaining until the fall of that year.

Wm. S. Hays, who was about my age, and a neighbor and friend of mine, married a lady of Newark, New Jersey, and had made arrangements to move with the team, and fifteen or more negroes to Claiborne, Alabama, and proposed to me to accompany him, offering to pay all of my traveling expenses, and to give me at the rate of $200. a year for attending to his business. I readily agreed to accept the offer, and, in the latter part of October, we started on our long journey. At the same time, Goldsmith and Henry G. Davis, with team and negroes also, joined our company, and a Mr. Downer, also with team and negroes, fell in with us. Mr. Hays sent his wife and a Miss Robinson out by sea, and at Petersburg, Virginia, he left us and proceeded on horse-back.

We arrived safely at Claiborne, Alabama, on the 16th December, 1825, after fifty days travel. We found Mr. Hays, his wife, and Miss Robinson, all there, at the residence of Col. H.H.B. Hays, a brother of Wm. S. Hays, where we were received and treated with the utmost kindness, as were also the Messrs. Davis. After fixing up Wm. S. Hays on the farm, 10 miles north of Claiborne, on the Alabama River, I engaged with Col. Hays as clerk in his store until June. I then took a portion of his goods and set up a store on the west side of Alabama River, at a place called Honey Hill, at which place a postoffice was established, and I was appointed postmaster. I boarded with a very good man, Silas Bryan, and did a very good business up to January 1st, 1828. I then settled up satisfactorily with Col. Hays and engaged passage at Mobile, on Schooner "New York," for Baltimore. I brought with me Charles Hays, a son of Col. Hays, seven years old; also brought a step-son of Wm. Henderson's, Julius A. Wood, both of whom were put to school with Rev. Reuben H. Davis, at the Bel Air Academy. We landed in Baltimore in February, 1828, after a voyage of twelve days rough sailing, and reached Bel Air in a few days after. In the following April, I was married, as previously mentioned. We lived with my father until January 1st, 1829, and then settled on a farm, given me by my father, about half a mile from the old homestead, where I remained until the death of my wife, February, 1830. After the death of my wife, Rachel, I broke up housekeeping and lived with my father. My mother had died in 1829. My youngest sister, Julia, was keeping house for my father.

I remained there until the fall of 1830, when Col. H.H.B. Hays, of Alabama, from whom I had formerly done business, while on his way to New York to purchase a stock of goods, stopped at my father's to see me, and proposed to me to go with him and join him in business. I felt desolate after losing my wife, and was ready and anxious to go, and therefore at once accepted his proposition. We went by stage-coach by way of Princeton, and railroad to New York. We there made our purchases, shipped them, and took passage on ship "Exito" for Mobile, Alabama. After a pleasant passage of 18 days, we arrived in Mobile, in November, 1830, and shipped by an Alabama River steamboat to Claiborne. I rented a storehouse at Suggsville, in Clarke Co., from John Campbell, and boarded with him. The firm name of the Suggsville store was "Forwood and Hays," and the store in Claiborne was in the name of "Hays and Dupree." Our business was very satisfactory. John L. Bryan, son of Silas Bryan, was my clerk, and was popular with my customers.

During the summer I bought the estate of Col. Thomas Wiggins, now known as Gosport Landing, on the Alabama River, five miles below Claiborne, and the firm of Forwood and Hays dissolved by consent, and satisfactorily.

Julius A. Wood had returned to Alabama with me, had become of age, and had received his portion of his father's estate from Col. Hays, the executor of said estate, and at the desire of his step-father, Mr. Wm. Henderson, we became partners and established a store in the name of "Forwood and Wood," at Gosport. A postoffice was also established there at the same time, and I was appointed postmaster, when Wm. T. Barry(?) was the postmaster-General. At the end of year 1832, Wood married and sold his interest out to me, which I carried on until 1839. I then took J. A. Flemming in as a partner, and at the end of the year sold out to him. He managed badly, and I lost largely by him. I took back what goods there were left, and gradually closed up business entirely.

I bought a plantation belonging to the estate of the late Geo. Murphy, on the river, four miles from my residence, and engaged in farming. For a part of the property, 450 acres, I paid $9,000. Eventually I bought the remainder, two or three thousand acres, at lower figures. Then bought Negroes and employed an overseer and went to farming. I was succeeding well in raising corn, cotton, cattle, horses and hogs. At the close of the Civil War I had in all about 80 negroes, in the emancipation of which I sustained a loss of about $80,000. I owned some six or seven thousand acres of land. I sold the Gosport Landing tract to pay a security debt for a Sheriff, whose bond I was on. Col. Cregg and myself had to pay $10,000. for the Sheriff's default, and I have in other instances sustained considerable losses by security and otherwise, not necessary to mention here. I still had enough left to give each of four sons from six to eight hundred acres of land, retaining the homestead for ourselves, and at our decease to go to our young-

Theophilus Nicholson my Eldest son the following Negroes Philip Arch Alfred and Wily by him freely to be possessed and enjoyed forever. Also I give to my daughter Mary the wife of Kinchin Taylor the following Negroes Betty Cherry and Jos. Also I give to my daughter Sarah the wife of Robert H. Scott the following Negroes Hannah Ansom Nose Reet and Henry. Also I give to my daughter Pherriby the wife of Wil-
 I leave and ordain Theophilus Nicholson and Joseph M. Nicholson the sole Executors of this my last Will and Testament and I do hereby revoke and disannul all and every other former Testaments Wills, and Legacies by me in anywise before named no other to be my last Will and Testament

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand this Sixth day of May in the Year of Our Lord One thousand Eight hundred and thirty three. Signed sealed published prouned and declared by the said Josiah Nicholson as his last Will and Testament in his presence and in the presence of each other have hereto Subscribed Our names.

Charles Bonner Armistead did more than fill prescriptions. He helped people with their lives.

A staple in this Jackson County community for more than a half century, Armistead died last week in Hurst, Texas. He was 91.

Armistead took over the operation of the K.W. Burnham Drug Co. when his stepfather died. Under Armistead's guidance, the Main Street drugstore became the hub of activity in Moss Point.

"He was a big Ole Miss fan, who hardly ever missed a game," said Harry Lane of Moss Point, who bought the drugstore from Armistead, who retired in the early 1960s.

An outgoing individual who was concerned about the welfare of his fellow man, Armistead had a philanthropic soft spot, Lane said.

"He was always being called on," he said, "and he was more than willing to do his share."

Burnham Drugs was one of the first drugstores in Mississippi to be air-conditioned, and consistently ranked in the state's top five in prescription volume, Lane said.

The drugstore is still housed on Main Street, and has a display case

Everybody who knew him says he was highly regarded," said John McKinney, who operates the drugstore with his wife, Wendy. "He was always ready to help people, and that had a lot to do with the growth of the store."

Armistead was a member of First Baptist Church in Moss Point. He was a member of the YMBC, the Moss Point Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Moss Point School Board and the board of directors of the Pascagoula and Moss Point Bank.

He was also a graduate of the University of Mississippi and the Gulf Coast Military Academy.

Survivors include two daughters, Joyce Armistead Horsley of Atlanta and Mary Armistead Games of Hurst; three grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday at Holder-Wells Funeral Home in Moss Point. A graveside service will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Griffin Cemetery in Moss Point, with a memorial service following at 11 a.m. at First Baptist Church in Moss Point.

The family prefers memorials to First Baptist Church in Moss Point.

Women Of Latter Day Saints Church Have Christmas Party

The home of Mrs. J. L. Barlow on Columbus Drive was the scene of a lovely Christmas party, December 16, for the women of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day aints.

The living and dining rooms were beautiful with Christmas scenes and decorations.

Arriving guests were greeted with Christmas carols played on records after which a short devotional service was directed by Mrs. Mack Hawley who also conducted the games and other amusements for the afternoon.

After an exchange of gifts, Mrs. Barlow was assisted by Mesdames Hawley and Eugene Furby in serving refreshments to Mesdames Lloyd Stutts, J. C. Parker, S. H. Harris, E. Careno, J. J. Williams, Rudolph Williams, Frank Waters, F. E. Spicer, John Rogers, Joe Mason and Mary Parker and Miss Annie Martin.

HANEY-HAMILTON NUPTIALS

On Sunday, December 26 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Calvary Baptist church will be the setting for the nuptials of Miss Doris Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hamilton and Thomas Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Haney of Pascagoula.

The wedding will be a quiet one, with only the two families and close friends in attendance.

BIOGRAPHY OF C. B. ARMISTEAD

C. B. Armistead of the Burnham Company, a Walgreen Agency, located at 617 Main Street, Moss Point, came into the firm as manager in 1940, and became a full partner with K. W. Burnham in 1946.

The Burnham Drug Company was established in 1902, and was the first air conditioned drug store in Mississippi. This drug company has a complete line of drugs, leading brands of cosmetics, fine candies, Eastman Kodak and film supplies, complete line of jewelry, diamonds, Bulova and Elgin watches, Parker, Scheaffer and Eversharp fountain pens. Their slogan is, "Filling Prescriptions is a Profession with Us."

A native of Moss Point, Miss., Mr. Armistead graduated from the University of Mississippi in 1924, and was in the retail drug business at Wichita Falls, Texas, before returning here. At Wichita Falls, he met and married Miss Elizabeth Billinger, and they have two daughters—Joyce and Mary.

Mr. Armistead is a member of the Board of Trustees of Moss Point School Board, a member of the Baptist Church, Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, and Pascagoula Country Club. He was active in R.O.T.C. work for 3 years.

Golfing, fishing, football and baseball are favorite sports interests of Mr. Armistead.
